GERMAN RAIDERS CAUSE GREAT DESTRUCTION IN THE NORTH SEA

ATTEMPTING TO SECURE FURTHER PARTICULARS

Of the Sinking of the Troop Ship Antilles and a Correct List of Those Aboard the Ship

(By Associated Press)
Washington, Oct. 20.—Administration officials are attempting to secure further details of the sinking of the troop ship Antilles on which seventy Americans lost their lives when the ship was sent to the bottom by German submarines.

Attempts are being made by officials at the Capital to secure a correct list of those aboard the ship at the time it left its European port to return to the United States. This will be checked up with the list of survivors. Not until this has been done will it be possible for the officials at Washington to give an accurate list of the casualties.

Marine experts stated today that the commander of the German submarine that sunk the Antilles must have waited until the convoy ships passed over then took his bearing and fired the missile of death that sent the troop ship to the bottom, causing the first casualty experienced by America in the transportation of troops, since the break of relations between Germany and this country.

The experts also stated that the torpedo must have hit about midships, in a vital spot. This was based on the fact that the ship only remained afloat five minutes after it was hit.

It was stated that if the ship had been torpedoed on the trip over and had only stayed above water five minutes after being hit that only a few of the men that would have been aboard could have survived.

It is expected in Washington that Admiral Sims will send further details of the disaster some time today.

London, Oct. 20.—Two German raiders attacked a fleet of merchantmen in the North Sea being convoyed by British torpedo boats. Eleven of the fleet were sunk, including two of the convoy ships.

Three of the merchant ships that comprised the fleet were able to make their escape after a severe struggle. The ships that were sunk were: The Mary Rose and Strongbow, both British torpedo boats that formed a part of the convoy.

The merchantmen sunk were: Five Norwegian, three Swedish and one Danish.

Thus far it has been impossible for the merchant marine officials to determine the number of lives lost, though it is estimated that men from each of the ships went down after their ship had been torpedoed.

AUTO THIEVES

APPREHENDED

Fairbrothers and Woman Arrested at Newport for Manchester Police.

Newport, Oct. 20.—The trio of automobile thieves that have terrorized the residents of two states, and have led the police of Lowell, Mass., and Manchester a merry chase, were arrested last night by Chief of Police Henry E. Hastings of this town, and were later identified as the couple who are alleged to have held up a Manchester taxicab driver, Ernest Paquette, in Londonderry, last Sunday night and robbed him of $23 in money and stole his machine after locking him in the cellar of a deserted house. The same operation was performed on a Lowell, Mass., chauffeur on Tuesday night.

The two men gave their names as Charles R. and Eddie Fairbrother of Andover, Mass., and the woman said she was Arline Leroy of Stoneham, Mass. Charles Fairbrother had a revolver in his coat pocket and his brother Eddie had the handle of a cross-cut saw. A bunch of 15 skeleton keys were also found on the pair, and the woman had a dress suit case full of clothes and a small handbag.

They were arrested about 7:30 last evening as suspicious characters, and an additional charge of having concealed weapons was lodged against them. The police of Manchester were notified and Captain Charles R. Healey, Inspector William M. Mohr and Chauffeur Sherman Hadlock came here and took the trio back to Manchester. It is expected that they will be arraigned in the Derry court in the morning on charges of larceny in the Londonderry holdup.

The trio have led the police of Manchester a merry chase to Vermont and back. Thursday night the Manchester officers were in this town, but the couple did not pass through here and their trail was lost, until the local police discovered them.

The woman first claimed she was the wife of one of the men, and then said she was a cousin to the brothers. The couple had a Massachusetts machine when arrested and it is thought that it is the one they stole from Lowell. The woman is about 21 years old.

WELDING NORTH AND SOUTH

One of the significant things in the holding of the Southern Commercial Congress for the first time in a northern city, and in the addresses made therein is the influence of the foreign war in which the United States has been forced to participate in bringing together in greater harmony the northern and southern sections of the country. It is in fact bringing closer together all sections of the country in the common cause. The only serious division that ever occurred was that between North and South, due to the unfortunate institution of slavery. The healing of that old breach has been slow and it is to be hoped that it will now be made complete with a general "healing of all the nations."

It is one of the disappointments of the autocratic rulers of the German Empire that their emissaries failed in the attempt to seriously divide the people of this whole country and thereby to weaken the power of democracy and prevent it from working out its own salvation and making progress in the world. In spite of their corrupting efforts the effect of forcing us into the war in defence of our rights has been to bring the subjects of our government, including the foreign elements closer together. In spite of some incurable it is bringing about a healthier national condition throughout the land.—From the New York Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin.

AMERICAN OFFICERS BECOMING EXPERT GOLFERS

(By Associated Press)

Base American Flotilla in British Waters, Oct. 19.—The American officers are becoming topnotch golfers. Only a handful of them played the game back in the states, but now every destroyer numbers three or four devotees of the sport. The season is now in full swing and almost any fair day groups may be seen monopolizing the links. The Americans not only have revived the game in these parts but so many of them have taken up golf that they have put the local club on a paying basis and generally made themselves popular with the residents.

When the Americans arrived, the links which are at the top of the cliffs overlooking the sea, were somewhat neglected but they have now been put into first class condition, the grass has been cut and the greens have been rolled as never before. Caddies have been attracted from distant parts, encouraged by the generosity of the Americans, whose tips are much sought after.

The clubhouse is a most picturesque old castle built in 1530. There is all sorts of traditions attached to it. It resembles greatly Blarney Castle and was originally built by the chief of an old clan who ruled the country for miles about.

Tea is served in the great room of the castle. White wash alone covers the rough stone walls and the ceilings.

Often an old native member of the club will drop in to regale the Americans with tales of the clubhouse or anecdotes of the game. A native who gave up making golf sticks and bags has returned to his profession since the Yankee invasion and he gives up his spare moments to teaching the Yankee beginners the fine points of the game.

The course is a nine-hole affair with plenty of hazards but the Americans can play on an eighteen hole course by visiting other links some five miles from their base.

STILL POURING MONEY INTO NEUTRAL COUNTRIES

London, Oct. 19.—Germany today is pouring vast amounts of money into neutral countries for propaganda designed to sway public opinion. According to authoritative information, her expenditures for this work will total more than $80,000,000 on the present scale of lavishness.

Much of the money is spent in subsidizing foreign newspapers. In a number of cases Germans bought newspapers outright and managed them from behind the scenes. Large amounts are also being paid agents to keep peace agitation going.

It was learned today that, on one occasion the German minister to Mexico, Von Eckhardt, subsidized a Mexican newspaper by furnishing it news

BAD MAN SENTENCED TO DEATH

Baton Rouge, La., Oct. 19.—Heleno Carriere, who bore the reputation of "dead shot" and "bad man," was convicted and sentenced to death for the murder of Marion L. Swords, sheriff of St. Landry parish, on July 17, 1916. The sheriff was shot and killed when he and a posse attempted to recapture Carriere who had escaped from jail at Jennings where he was held on the charge of killing a negro.

After killing the sheriff, Carriere succeeded in remaining at liberty for a month, although pursued by possses through canebrakes and swamps and was captured only after he had been severely wounded. He was tried and found guilty of murder the following October. The state supreme court affirmed the verdict and Governor Pleasant set October 19 as the date of the execution.

The case attracted widespread attention throughout Louisiana and the neighboring states because of the prominence of Sheriff Swords, one of the state's leading democrats, and because of Carriere's reputation as a bad man. The latter had served two terms in the penitentiary for stealing and for receiving stolen property. Sheriff Swords had befriended him on several occasions and when captured Carriere expressed regret that he had killed him saying he would not have done so if Swords had not taken negroes to help capture him.

The sheriff, accompanied by a deputy, three citizens and three negro guides surrounded Carriere in a cabin just at dawn after residents of the Mallet woods had informed him that the fugitive was terrorizing the neighborhood. Carriere fled into a corn field, carrying a rifle and was closely pursued by the sheriff and his deputy. In a running fight the deputy and two guides were wounded and the sheriff was shot through the heart. Carriere escaped unharmed.

A month later he was brought to bay in an abandoned sawmill near Basile, La., sixty miles away and was captured with more than 60 buckshot wounds in his body.

BOXING NEWS

Bill Brennan, the County Mayo giant who took Boston fans off their feet when he battled twelve rounds to a dead heat with battling Levinsky at the Arena a few weeks ago, will be a strong favorite when he meets the Hebrew at the Arena next Tuesday night. Their last battle was in many ways the greatest heavyweight contest that has been staged in Boston and there is no reason why it will not be duplicated.

It was Brennan's first appearance in the Hub and when Billy La Clair, sounded the gong for the end of the battle and when Larry Connolly declared it a draw there went up a howl of dissatisfaction. Brennan had forced the fighting most of the way and had scored the most effective blows. He knocked the Hebrew up and gave him a harder battle than he ever had in his life.

From the tip of the gong in the first round to the finish of the fight it was a continuous series of mixes. The big, powerful Irishman is as fast as most lightweights, is very clever, and has a left hand that would make a welter champion envious.

He certainly was a surprise to the wise ones who followed that Leo Flynn had inflated Brennan's record as a kayo artist.

It takes a wonderfully clever man to place a kayo punch on Levinsky's jaw. He is the fastest and most clever big man that ever got into the ring. A kayo punch is the only thing that he lacks. Battling is as game as any man that ever got into the ring, and it is wonderful to watch him get out of bad holes by his cleverness and ring generalship. It saved him more than once in his battle with Brennan. His way matter saved the day for him for he certainly got badly beaten in spots in the last fight with Brennan.

There will be some lively preliminaries. Faddy Owens of Cambridge and Kid Lahore of Manchester, N. H., will be ten rounds in the semi-final.

On the following day the Arabs began to fight among themselves. When the guard left the prisoners to join in the fight they crawled away and escaped over the mountain into the desert, over which they tramped for nine days, practically without food or water. Eventually they arrived at a place where friendly natives lent them a scow of about 200 tons. After eight days of further privations they were taken on board a warship which had been dispatched to the scene of the wreck.

fuel administration here. It would not surprise officials if public authorities, where there is an acute shortage draw upon nearest big coal piles to prevent women and children freezing in their homes.

Intimations that luxury industries would be cut off from coal first and that boarders would be forced to disgorge were given by the fuel administration.

The war was represented as having added "adopted children" to a family already in difficulty to supply its brood with warm clothing.

"Then somebody simply has to stay in bed to keep warm," said D. H. Nims, fuel assistant to Administrator Oakfield.

"The war's demands for coal are illustrated in the case of one munition plant, which has increased its output 2500 per cent, and is running 24 hours a day," said Nims. "We also are treating our allies as we treat ourselves. The country is producing more coal than last year and the only coal production is careful handling of what we have got. Hysteria on the public's part will only aggravate the situation. The people may have to make sacrifices with regard to coal as well as food, and we expect them to endure it like good soldiers. But we are doing everything the government possibly can do to bring relief to every emergency."

Confidence was expressed that miners who have abandoned their tools within the past week will return to work by Monday. Union officials here expect Garfield to announce his decision on the men's wage raise by Nov. 1.

Washington, Oct. 19.—Germany's giant pirate U-boats are now robbing food ships of their cargoes, stowing these within the submarine hold, and then sinking the unfortunate victims—aprilis versenkt.

That is the newest development of ruthless undersea warfare, according to confidential embassy reports today. Using new 1500-ton vessels, in pairs, the Germans are operating off the beaten track, apparently several miles outside the old danger line zone around Great Britain and France.

The newer U-boats are sufficiently large to permit stowage of a large portion of a captured cargo. Because of this capacity the war trade board has been particularly loath to ship out cargoes for European neutral ports. This also explains why merchant ships now require heavy convoys for protection.

These convoys are causing much of the apparent difficulty, Germany and Austria are having with their submarine fleets. The two multitudes reported yesterday indicate Teuton seamanship, despite iron discipline, are unnerved by the anti-submarine work of the allies and America.

SUGAR SHORTAGE IS ACUTE

Boston, Oct. 19.—Only 3312 bags of sugar dribbled into the Boston market for distribution today to appease a demand that is normally many times that amount. This only emphasized the warning issued by the food administrator, sugar wholesalers and sugar retailers that the public must reduce its consumption of sugar to the absolute minimum.

The assurance was made by persons best acquainted with the sugar trade that if the public will reduce sugar consumption and will buy only what is absolutely necessary to last from day to day it will be possible to tide over the period of scarcity.

It developed today that many grocery stores have discovered families that send one member of the family after another to such stores that are lucky enough to have obtained sugar and are striving to distribute the scanty stock fairly among their regular customers. These persons buy the maximum dose, thus hoarding to the disadvantage of others.

It was on this account, it was explained, that stores with sugar were compelled to do it out in one and two pound lots to regular customers only. To prevent strangers from making the rounds and buying the limit at one store after another, it was necessary to limit the purchases to strange customers who would also buy groceries as an evidence of good faith in their claim that they were not trying to stock up.

One grocer in Dorchester said he knew one family sent out its children, three of them, to one store after another and accumulated more than 20 pounds.

THREE AMERICAN SHIPS CAPTURED

An Atlantic Port, Oct. 19.—Attacks on three American sailing ships by German submarines were reported by their crews who reached here today on a French liner. Captain Mortenson of the three-masted American barque Paulina, of 1138 tons, said his vessel was 1410 miles from Brest, Sept. 25, when she was fired on by a U-boat, but not hit. The Germans then came alongside, looted her and sank her with bombs. The captain and his crew escaped in the small boats and were picked up by a French destroyer. The Paulina had a cargo of oil and steel wire. She was owned by Whitney & Bodden Company.

Another crew from the American schooner McCrae of Philadelphia, reported that three months ago their ship was torpedoed by a submarine near Brest but did not sink. The Germans looted her and then abandoned her, and later, they said, she was towed into Brest and sold. She had a cargo of oil.

Also on the same liner was the crew of the four-masted schooner Henry Lippitt, 595 tons, of Philadelphia, whose sinking had previously been reported.

Cobb, Bates & Yerxa, declared that every day sees the sugar situation become more acute. It is especially warned against hoarding.

"Only by the most economical use of sugar by everyone by going without sugar except when going without means absolute hardship, will it be possible to remedy a situation that grows more acute daily."

"There is a little sugar dribbling into the market, but nowhere near enough to supply the normal demand. We cannot get enough to supply our own retail stores, to say nothing of selling sugar wholesale."

"In the retail stores we are limiting purchases to two pounds and we cannot get enough to fill the demand."

BOY SCOUTS START CAMPAIGN

(By Associated Press)

New York, Oct. 19.—The Boy Scouts of America will take their places tomorrow as workers in the nation's campaign on behalf of the second liberty loan. The day will mark the beginning of their subscription efforts which will not be terminated until next Thursday night. The announced ambition of these 263,330 boys, and their 70,000 leaders is to obtain pledges which will assure the sale of nearly $50,000,000 worth of bonds or approximately twice the amount realized in 139,646 homes during the four day campaign which the Boy Scouts conducted in connection with the first liberty loan.

Special demonstrations, special publicity efforts and services in houses of worship will constitute the Boy Scout activities tomorrow and Sunday. During the four days beginning with Monday a house to house canvass will be made. The Boy Scouts will distribute 6,500,000 special bond posters for display in store windows and elsewhere. Camps will be set up in public parks and squares and bugles will call attention to the poster displays. Parades will be held together with a special patriotic demonstration on the occasion of the nation-wide celebration of Liberty Day, October 24.

Five million application circulars will be left at the homes at which the purchasing of bonds is to be solicited. These were printed by the government which has supplied the boys also with 300,000 manuals of bond salesmanship. Expert salesmen will advise the Boy Scouts in their campaign.

At the close of the first campaign, 7740 war service emblems were then awarded to Boy Scouts who sold the bonds in ten or more homes. These bear the seal of the treasury department. To those emblem holders who qualify in the second campaign a bar will be added. In addition, Colin H.

MUST SACRIFICE SOME ON COAL

Washington, Oct. 19.—Patriotic sacrifices by the public with regard to coal will be necessary this winter. It was stated today by the fuel administration. The public was asked not to grow hysterical about the admittedly serious coal shortage in many cities. Fuel will be supplied every domestic and war emergency need, it was stated.

Meantime, a "hand to mouth" policy was advised for consumers until suspension of Great Lakes navigation early in December makes available enormous quantities of coal diverted from the northwest route.

When appeals to state fuel administrators and local dealers absolutely fail to provide necessary coal, consumers are urged to wire the federal

Retailers Now Under Fire.

The high cost of living was much complained of long before the United States entered the war, and since that step was taken conditions have been growing worse, so much so that the government has intervened and is endeavoring to bring about some relief in the matter of prices for food and fuel. Thus far the ultimate consumer is unable to see where his burdened has been lessened, but it is quite possible that it is too early to judge the results of the government's action. It is a big job that has been undertaken, and big jobs cannot be done in a minute or a day. It takes time to achieve large accomplishments.

But in this connection one interesting thing has come to the front. From the time complaints began to be heard about the cost of living until very recently responsibility for the uncomfortable and unwarrantable conditions was laid upon the middleman. He is the individual who was said to stand between the producer and the consumer and to fatten at the expense of both. It was admitted that the farmers were getting no more than they should for their produce, while consumers were paying more than they should be compelled to, owing to the inordinate profits made by the men through whose hands the commodities passed on their way from the farms to the homes of the people. This doctrine was loudly proclaimed and generally accepted. It was the consensus of opinion that the middleman was to blame for the living conditions of which there was such loud and just complaint.

But recent developments indicate that not all of the responsibility rests upon the middleman; that retailers are also out for what there is in it for them. This paper only a few days ago commented upon the fish situation in Boston, where retail prices of fish are high in spite of catches far ahead of those of last year at this time. Those who looked into the matter found that the wholesalers and jobbers were not making exorbitant profits, but that the retailers, with or without an "understanding," were feathering their nests at the expense of the consumers.

And now comes complaint from Governor Capper of Kansas concerning the coal situation in that state. He says the conditions there are "extremely unsatisfactory," and for this he holds the retail coal dealers responsible. He charges them with concerted action to keep the price of coal at an unreasonable level, and has written Fuel Administrator Garfield to that effect. He declares that "a careful investigation has developed no justification for the prices now prevailing."

The unwelcome fact appears to be that no one class is responsible for the high cost of living, but that all dealers in food stuffs and fuel are disposed to take advantage of the conditions that exist and "make hay while the sun shines."

What success the government will have in bringing these people to terms remains to be seen. It is sincerely to be hoped that a way will be found to curb the human sharks, whether these be found in the form of middlemen or retailers, and to protect the people against a form of robbery to which they have been too long subjected.

When a man is sentenced to imprisonment for only three to five years of strangling his little daughter to death in a state where capital punishment is the prescribed penalty for murder, it looks as if our much-boasted "democracy" needed a little bracing up in spots. And that is the kind of sentence that was imposed in a Massachusetts court the other day.

The Bible says there is no peace for the wicked, and if the absence of peace is a correct test the Boston and Maine railroad would seem to be included in that reprehensible class. Its station employees are now demanding shorter hours and more pay and threatening to make trouble if their demands are not acceded to.

If there are any Portsmouth boys desiring to get into the Ninth Company, Coast Artillery, now is their opportunity. As announced in this paper, 28 men are needed to fill the quota, and the captain would be glad to have them from the company's home city. How long will the boys keep him waiting?

If you do not buy a Liberty bond it will not be the fault of the good women of Portsmouth, who are going to see that you have the opportunity without leaving your homes. Those who have not already responded should prepare to give these messengers a cordial welcome.

The call for a rigorous conservation of sugar should furnish a good excuse for the young fellows to send fewer boxes of chocolates to their b. g's.

"Higher prices for meat" says a headline. But of course meat is one of the things that the government is not pretending to "regulate."

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Eggs and Prices.

(From Charleston News and Courier)
About this time of year, as the old adage has it, it is a safe rule to look for a rise in the price of eggs. This year the hens in most parts of the country have kept on laying later than usual. This year there has been no export market for eggs, that is to say, there has been no way of getting the eggs to that market, whereas last year hundreds of thousands of cases of American eggs were sold in Europe. As a result Henry M. Hyde of the Chicago Tribune reports that the visible supply of eggs in cold storage throughout the United States is today at least 20,000,000 dozens larger than it was at this time last year. But is the customary rise in price to be expected? Ask your grocer. He will tell you that eggs already are five or six cents a dozen higher than a year ago, and rising in price all the time.

There is a good explanation, of course, there always is. It is the farmer who is to blame, say the cold storage people. The farmer wants what seem like fancy prices, and he gets them. Whether the prices are really fancy is a matter of opinion. Mr. Hyde quotes one authority as saying: "You can't expect to get eggs as cheap from a $1 hen, fed on $2-a-bushel feed, as from a 50-cent hen which eats feed worth only $1 a bushel." That, it must be admitted, sounds plausible; but it doesn't help the consumer very much, at least not the consumer who lives in the town and works for a salary which is just what it was three years ago. About the only consolation left for him is that eggs after all are not as important as they used to be, now that the hogs is a thing of the past.

Our Message to Germany.

(From the Springfield Republican)
The popular participation was the marked feature of the first Liberty loan drive, and people understand what is expected of them better now than they did at the start. The message which the United States desires to send to Germany is one backed by the money of all our people, and the holder of a $50 bond has as real a stake in the war as the persons or corporations who are able and willing to subscribe for much larger amounts.

At Camp Devens.

(From the Pittsburg Sentinel)
The presence of this great multitude was eloquent in itself in the conveyance of a message of cheer, and it told in unmistakable terms of the kinship of a common nationality. There were men of many different bloods in that little company of young men, but who that looked upon them could fail to feel that all belonged to America, united in the bonds of a common service in a cause which is America's cause? There was no hyphenated Americanism about this leave-taking.

Coming Amendments.

(From the Boston Herald)
The four amendments which go on to the forthcoming ballot deserve prompt and emphatic adoption, and we have no doubt this will be the result of the polling. To accomplish these results, if nothing further ever came out of the convention, would justify all the labor and expense called in its issue.

Two Brands of Irishmen

(From the New York Herald)
Northwest of Hancock the Irish carried out a successful raid in the morning. Field Marshal Haig. It is into the hands of these brave Irishmen, fighting to the death the foe of freedom, that the German-Irishmen of this land are trying to drive their dirks. Can there be any doubt which brand is bringing glory to their native land or which will live in the history of Ireland?

Bishop Beaven's Silver Jubilee

(From the Springfield Union, Oct. 18)
"It will be more in keeping with the present drift of these unusual days to hold far in the background any demonstration centralizing attention upon personal achievement," said Rev. Thomas D. Beaven in referring recently to the approaching twenty-fifth anniversary of his consecration as bishop of the Springfield diocese. That anniversary is today, and in obedience to the Bishop's wishes there will be no public observance of the event either in his own church or by other Catholic churches of the diocese. The Bishop's modesty in this respect is characteristic and does him honor, but his episcopal jubilee will not lack recognition merely because void of outward show. His people will make it the occasion to recall the things that Bishop Beaven has accomplished during the quarter of a century he has so ably ministered to the material and spiritual advancement of the diocese, and they will wish him the blessing of continued good health and many more years of useful service to the church.

Springfield claims Bishop Beaven is a native son. More than half of the sixty-seven years of his life have been passed here. The remainder was devoted to acquiring a higher education and to pastoral duties outside the city. Holyoke and Spencer are indebted to him for service during the years immediately following his ordination to the priesthood. In touch with everything that concerns the upbuilding of the diocese the Bishop has received and received the cooperation of both clergy and laity. New hospitals, new orphan asylums, homes for the aged, refuges for the fallen, organized charities like the St. Vincent de Paul Conferences, new churches and missions, and an extraordinary growth in Catholic population, bear eloquent testimony to his untiring zeal. He has gained not only the love of his flock, but the respect and esteem of those in the community who are not of the Catholic faith.

The plaintiff asserts she was guaranteed an income of not less than $127,000 per annum.

RED CROSS SEALS RECEIVED FOR HOLIDAY SEASON

Will Be Offered for Sale About Nov. 1 in Practically Every State in the Union.

Two large boxes containing 2,500,000 seals have been received at the offices of the N. H. Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis at the City Mission building, at the corner of Merrimack and Beech streets, Manchester.

These seals are to be offered for sale about November 1. In practically every state in the Union and in our own state work has already begun on the Christmas Seal Campaign.

The prospects for a total sale far larger than ever are so excellent that the American Red Cross lately provided for the printing of fifty million more seals than the original order which was for one hundred million more seals than a year ago. American participation in the war, and the great increase in tuberculosis in the allied countries, due to the war make the need apparent for an immense increase in the seal sale.

To protect our country from such loss as France has suffered from tuberculosis, state and local tuberculosis associations should have funds for use among recruits at the cantonments, those rejected, and the civilian population, to an amount estimated at more than $3,000,000 as against $1,000,000 raised in the 1916 seal sale. With the increased need there is a vast increase in the number of people with a will to give and a new awakening to the frightful significance of tuberculosis.

All authorities agree that tuberculosis is the greatest problem of the present world's war. We are now entered in the same war and the same kind of warfare.

Plans have been considered for the setting aside from seal proceeds of special war funds in each state, to be used to protect or relieve its soldiers or their families from tuberculosis. It is believed that thousands of patriotic Americans will this year give much larger sums of money than the face value of the seals they take for use.

The Directors of the N. H. Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis have voted that one half of the excess sale of seals as over that of 1916 shall be set aside as a State War Tuberculosis Campaign Fund for the relief and care of tuberculous soldiers and their families from this state.

Reports from the cantonments already indicate that a large number of N. H. recruits have already been rejected because of tuberculosis. The State health authorities and the anti-tuberculosis workers must secure for them the care and supervision which they need. Already plans have been outlined to this end.

In order to be able to do our duty by our civilian as well as our soldier tuberculosis the State Anti-Tuberculosis Society must secure a sale of at least three times as many seals as last year, or a little less than two million seals. This is but a little more than four seals per capita, or four cents per person in our State. Surely this can be easily secured and the State Anti-Tuberculosis Society will be properly equipped to carry on effective work during the coming year. The society has already received assurances of active support in the sale of the Red Cross Seals from Women's Clubs and local Red Cross Chapters. It is also hoped that many of the schools throughout the state will lend their aid. In the schools in Manchester alone last year over $500 worth of Red Cross seals were sold. In proportion to population and number of school children the other schools in the state will make an effort to outdo the Manchester boys and girls in the sale of the holiday stickers.

The society will work during the coming year in close touch with the Red Cross Chapters and the Committees on the Council of National Defense.

The campaign of the N. H. Association will be directed along the lines of education of the people of our state as to the causes, prevention, and cure of tuberculosis, securing beds for the many uncurd for consumptives in our state, securing dispensaries and visiting tuberculosis nurses as well as aiding the health authorities in the state tuberculosis survey and the following up and securing of cure and supervision for tuberculous soldiers and relief for their families.

WHEAT GRADES HIGH THIS YEAR

Rumors That New Gov. Standards Would Work Hardship Proven Without Foundation.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 20.—A large part of this year's wheat crop has graded high at the markets, No. 3 or better, under the federal wheat standards made effective this year. The United States Department of Agriculture calls attention to the exact figures because persistent false rumors have been circulated in the grain trade and particularly among country shippers and producers, to the effect that, under the new federal standards for wheat, very little of the marketed crop is being, or has been, placed in the higher grades. On the contrary, the requirements of the federal standards for wheat are not such as to work hardship on the country shippers and producers, for under these standards high grades have been given to a heavy percentage of the wheat market.

The Department of Agriculture calls attention to these facts:
1. Of the Hard Red Spring Wheat which arrived in Minneapolis during the months of August and September 1914, 1915 and 1916, 76.7 per cent graded No. 3, or better under Minnesota state standards for wheat in effect at that time.

Of the Hard Red Spring Wheat which arrived in Minneapolis during August and the first 22 days of Sept. this year, 81.2 per cent graded No. 3 or better under the federal standards.

In comparing the above facts it should be borne in mind that whereas "No. 3 or better" under Minnesota state standards included the first four grades (Nos. 1 Hard and Nos. 1, 2, 3, Northern) only the first three grades of the federal standards have been considered.

2. Of the Hard Red Winter Wheat which arrived at Chicago during July and August this year 79.3 per cent graded No. 3 or better under the federal standards; of the Soft Red Winter wheat which arrived at Chicago during the same period 74.5 per cent graded No. 3 or better under the federal standards.

Of the Hard Red Winter wheat that arrived at Kansas City during July and August this year 83.9 per cent graded No. 3 or better under the federal standards; of the Soft Red Winter wheat which arrived at Kansas City during the same period, 84.6 per cent graded No. 3 or better under the federal standards.

$10,000 LOSS IS LAID TO FIREBUG

Valuable Cattle and Horses Perish in Early Morning Blaze at Suncook.

Suncook, Oct. 20.—Fire, which has every indication of having been the work of an incendiary, destroyed the barn of Charles B. Whittemore with most of the contents early yesterday morning. The loss is estimated at between $5,000 and $10,000, and includes 10 valuable cows, three horses, one hundred hens, many tons of hay, farming implements and a well-filled silo.

Awakened by the crackling sound of wood burning, Mr. Whittemore arose to find tongues of flame spurting from the roof and sides of the large barn close to his house. Although the alarm was sounded immediately and the apparatus from Suncook made a fast run, the barn was beyond saving upon arrival and the attention of the firemen was directed to the main buildings which were saved with but slight loss. The apparatus from Concord was also summoned but was of little assistance as the fire had burned itself out when it arrived.

It is the general opinion of those living in the neighborhood of the scene that the fire was started by a "firebug" as evidence shows that the origin of the fire was in the hay close to the stalls of the cattle. Mr. Whittemore made his usual visit to the barn last night before retiring and found every thing to be in perfect condition.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

The Supreme Discovery of the Age.

A good sized audience was present at the Universalist church on Friday evening to listen to the Christian Science lecture, the speaker being John Randall Dunn, C. S., of St. Louis. The speaker was introduced by Ex-Postmaster Joseph P. Conner, who in his introductory remarks said:

"While not a member of the Christian Science Church, I am acquainted with many members and have for quite a while attended the Sunday services in this city, besides being a student of the Quarterly in connection with that famous volume, the text book, Science and Health, with Key to the Scriptures, by Mary Baker Eddy, as well as being a subscriber to and reader of the Christian Science Monitor, the Sentinel, the Journal and other authorized literature.

"It is with an ever increasing interest and profit that this literature is read, and while the progress toward an understanding may seem slow, I feel that it is at least a step leading in the right direction.

"There has been no medicine in our home for over a year and a half, and during that time, with the occasional aid of a Christian Science practitioner, many splendid healings have demonstrated the ever present power. Such demonstrations naturally produce a feeling of deep gratitude and a desire for a further and a better understanding of this great teaching.

"Various methods of enlightenment are furnished by the Christian Scientist, directing the attention of the people to the great Truth, and among them may be mentioned the numerous well written articles and splendid editorials in their periodicals; the testimonies voluntarily expressed by those who have been healed of sin or sickness; and the sending out of able lecturers who in a clear and understandable manner explain the power of God and the Laws of Principle, as contained in this religion, named Christian Science.

"We are privileged to hear one of such tonight, and I take great pleasure and deem it a high honor, to introduce Mr. John Randall Dunn, C. S., of St. Louis, a member of the board of Lecturers of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston, Mass."

A few moments' consideration of this great subject of Christian Science, in origin, its promise, and its fruitage should not fail to convince the most skeptical that the revelation of this truth to the world may well be designated The Supreme Discovery of The Age.

Breaking of Greater Spiritual Light

It should not seem unreasonable to anticipate that an age which has brought forth such material marvels should also witness the breaking of a greater spiritual light. In this thought, however, the average man comes with more or less caution. He willingly supplants his grandfather's candle with a modern incandescent lamp, unhesitatingly prefers an automobile to an ox-cart, and yet hesitates to accept the thought that he should expect advancement along the line of spiritual unfoldment as well as advancement in the realm of material. He probably tells you that the religion of his fathers is good enough for him, and on this point he will find no argument with a Christian Scientist, for the religion of the fathers is good enough for him if by the fathers he means the early Christian fathers. The religion of Jesus and the early Christians, the religion which was evidenced by the healing of the sick, the stilling of the tempest, and the feeding of the multitude, is indeed good enough for all mankind; in fact, it is the only panacea that is good enough for the aching heart of man. And it is to this selfsame religion of Jesus that Christian Science, this great twentieth-century religious movement, turns the sick and weary of earth.

Christian Science is not a modern philosophy, nor the "product of a fertile human brain." It is the revelation of the spiritual facts of being, the revelation of the truth about God and man taught by Jesus and the prophets, and it is all to be found in the Bible. The Path Marked by Jesus.

Have you ever seen in the mountains a "blazed" trail? A large piece of bark is chipped from a tree, and this operation is repeated on other trees at frequent intervals throughout the length of the trail. No matter how the trees may grow, the "blaze" remains, and so the trail is marked out for generations to come. When the world seemed immersed in the materialism of Jewish Pharisee and Roman paganism, there appeared one whose mission was to let the way to spirituality, to deliverance and healing, and he "blazed" a trail to the Father's house so plain, so simple, that a child could follow it. But in after centuries fast-growing weeds of ritual and human doctrines, of political power and ecclesiastical worldliness, obscured the trail, and mortals seemed content to follow the devious paths of creeds until in our time a woman-pilgrim came upon it and gave to her discovery the name Christian Science, or the Science of Christianity, and she rested not until she had written a book showing you and me how to find it. This guide-book is called "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," and is the text-book which Christian Scientists use in connection with their manual of life, the Bible.

The Mission of the Saviour.

A story is told of a shipwrecked sailor who was cast upon a far-off island inhabited by savage tribes. One day he came upon a group of wrangling natives, and inquiring the cause of the commotion, learned that there was a certain supply of coconuts brought to the island to be equally distributed among these men, and no one could decide as to the number that each should have. The sailor counted the coconuts. He found one hundred. He counted the men. There were twenty-five of them. Without hesitation he said, "Each will have four as his share." Imagine his surprise when the natives straightway flung themselves at his feet, called him a god, and proceeded to worship him! Try as he might, he could not persuade the simple folk that his instant means calculation was the result of an understanding of the principle of mathematics and was in no sense a revelation.

To the bewildered and heartless children of men came a Saviour. Understanding the great Principle of being, he solved their problems, bringing instantaneous answers in health and reformation and regeneration. He gladly said that of himself he did not do the works, and that if they would but understand his mission and his Principle, they too could solve the problems as did he. But they called him a wonder-worker, worshipped his personality, and crucified him!

And the human mind has continued its unapproaching gaze through the centuries, with the result that we still see thousands professing Christianity and worshipping the personality of Jesus, but following him in practical demonstration of divine power—not at all!

The Sign of a Christian.

Do you know that Jesus once pointed out a very simple method of discovering a true Christian? The directions are to be found in the sixteenth chapter of Mark, and follow immediately the well-known command to "preach the gospel to every creature." All words are:

"And these signs shall follow them that believe: In my name shall they cast out devils; they shall speak with new tongues; they shall take up serpents; and if they drink any deadly thing, it shall not hurt them; they shall lay hands on the sick, and they shall recover."

Christians, are we measuring up to his standard? Suppose we are traveling in a distant land, and a would-be convert says to us, "Are you a Christian?" And upon receiving an affirmative reply, suppose he next says: "Oh, or glad I am that you came! I saw your Bible that signs are to follow true believers. Now I am possessed by a veritable devil. I am a victim of the opium habit. Do, I beg of you, through your beautiful religion, cast this devil out!" What would we say? Would we recommend a well-known sanitarium famed for its treatment of the drug habit, or what would we do? Suppose he then says: "My mother is very ill. I see by your book that a Christian, understanding the great power taught by Jesus, can use her to recover. Come, I pray you, and heal her!" What would we say? Would we suggest a change of doctors—or would we undertake to put our faith to the test? And if by chance we say to this lingering doubt: "Ah, my dear sir, that was of meant for our tract. The days of calling are past,"—do not be surprised if he closes the Bible and hands it back with this statement: "Very well! I have a religion to die by that is older than yours."

Christians Must Heal the Sick.

A visitor at an insane asylum was attracted to a man who behind the bars of his room was seen pouring over the pages of a small Testament. Seeing the visitor, the patient beckoned him to come nearer. He had opened the book to the tenth chapter of Matthew, and pointing to the first verse, said, "Read that!" The visitor read: "And when he had called unto him his twelve disciples, he gave them power against unclean spirits, to cast them out, and to heal all manner of sickness and all manner of disease." When he had finished the reading, he inquired of his hand, "Send me one of those men! Send me one of those men!" he pleaded. But the visitors smiled, shook their heads, and murmured that it was a sad case.

Let each one of us who dares to name the name of Christianity, solemnly ask himself this question: Am I trying to be one of those men? Had been approached as was this visitor, could I have said to the unfortunate one, "Why friend, I believe in Christian healing! I am trying to be one of Jesus' disciples,—one of those men,"—and the power that banished devils in the days of the Master can free you now! If we are unable honestly to face the situation thus, let us go forth resolved to sit at the feet of the Christ and meekly learn of that power he possessed of which alone entitled him to the sacred name of Christian.

The Power Imparted by Jesus.

What was the power which Jesus imparted first to the twelve and later to the seventy disciples? It could not have been a mysterious magnetic current flowing from the personality of Jesus to those about him, for some would aver, for as has been stated, Jesus believed that of himself he could do nothing, and that it was the Father dwelling in him that did the works. Again, in the well-known passage from the fourteenth chapter of John, he states that his mighty works shall be done by those who believe on him, or in other words, those who understand his great mission and the divine Principle thereof. Thus we see that the power given by Jesus to his followers was a spiritual understanding, just as a teacher in school gives his pupils power to solve problems in arithmetic when he shows them the rule and principle bearing arithmetic. But apparently no definite rule was left by Jesus whereby this vital teaching was discernible. Here let us offer up psalms of thanksgiving! In this wonderful volume, Science and Health, has been revealed that treasure which to the unenlightened sense remained lost in the pages of the Bible for centuries. And today a Christian is without excuse who, when asked to heal the sick and cast out demons, turns his back and says, "I am not one of those men!"

How Jesus Healed the Sick.

We are now ready to consider one of the most important paragraphs in Science and Health, for it may be said to contain the "heart of great price." It tells us in the simplest of words how Jesus healed the sick.

"Jesus beheld in Science the perfect man, who appeared to him where standing mortal man appears to mortals. In this perfect man the Saviour saw God's own likeness, and this correct view of man healed the sick. Thus Jesus taught that the Kingdom of God is in fact, universal, and that man is pure and holy." (Science and Health, p. 476).

This then must have been the understanding which Jesus imparted to his disciples, which enabled them to deplore his wonderful healing work. This is the understanding which today is enabling Christian Scientists to confront, undismayed, the appearance of disease and vice, and to rescue the unfortunate in bondage thereto.

Evil Unreal.

The following illustration may help to throw more light on the Christian Scientist's attitude toward sin and disease. Before studying Christian Science, and while a member of an orthodox church, I was asked by a friend to "use my religion" as he expressed it, in the effort to reclaim a brother seemingly enslaved by drink.

I accepted the commission, and proceeded to "use my religion." I found my subject in a most repugnant mood, and he agreed almost tearfully with my ringing condemnation of his evil ways. I asked him if he did not realize the depths to which he had fallen, how wicked he was, and how terrible was that evil power to which he had submitted. Yes, he realized it all, but evil had been made so real and so powerful to him that even the hope of divine deliverance, with which I finally endeavored to inspire him, was of no avail, and he sank even deeper in the mire of sin.

Let us now consider another picture: A slave to false appetite is brought to one endeavoring to be a scientific Christian, or a Christian Scientist. The Scientist sees before him no bad man, no perpetrator of sin, but a victim of sin. He sees behind the fleshly appearance the man of God's creating, who is not a sinner, who has no pleasure in sin and no sinful desires, but who is eternally pure and free. He therefore bids the sufferer to awaken from this mesmerism. He shows him that the bondage which to him has seemed real and powerful, is a lie; for, as Jesus said, there is no truth in the devil, or evil; and he is assured that God has given man dominion over all error. And in thousands upon thousands of cases where these good tidings have been preached, have the victims of wrong desire risen in the glory of a new-found manhood. And through the same process, in numberless instances, has the sick man been awakened from his nightmare of invalidism and pain. —Add.

RUSSIANS TO MOVE CAPITAL TO MOSCOW

Germans Driving Russians in the Baltic and Take More Islands

(By Associated Press)

The German war office has little to report on the naval engagement between the Russians and Germans in the Baltic, the Russian fleet being presumably bottled up in Moon Bay. The report simply tells of the loss of the Russian battleship Slava.

Petrograd reports that Germany has begun landing men on Dagö Island which is adjoining Oesel Island under the cover of her fleet which includes three dreadnoughts, ten cruisers, 50 destroyers and eight submarines with a great force of auxiliaries. Two of the German torpedo destroyers were wrecked by running on the mine field in Moon Bay.

That the Russian government realizes the seriousness of the situation is evident by the fact that the capital is being moved from Petrograd to Moscow.

On the western front the activities of the French and English forces are confined to artillery duels.

AYER CAMP WILL SELL A MILLION IN BONDS

(By Associated Press)

Ayer, Mass., Oct. 19.—Reports tonight of the Liberty bond sales in camp totaled $761,000 and so far 9,970 men are bond buyers. Over 16,000 worth were obtained today in a whirlwind campaign.

FILE EXEMPTION AT AYER

The local war board has been notified that two of the men sent in the last selected draft, from this district have filed exemption on the ground of dependents, and the local board are asked to investigate the fact and report back.

Reuben McFarland of this city put in a claim for exemption on the ground that his wife is an invalid and depending on him for support. It will be remembered that the local board granted McFarland an exemption because he was a married man and they were overruled by the state board, whose judgment all through the draft selections has been to say the least, poor. The other case is that of Edmund Bonchard of Newmarket, who made no claim for exemption, but the matter of fact is he has a wife and one child and expects another, and his wife is now living with his parents who are poor and unable to support her. Bonchard states that he failed to file exemption through lack of understanding of the rules.

The local board will report their finding and in all probability the men will be discharged.

EVEN CROSS, SICK CHILDREN LOVE SYRUP OF FIGS

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul waste, the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels and you have a well and playful child again. (Children love this harmless "fruit laxative," and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "nudies" clean and sweet.)

Keep it handy, Mother! A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeits sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

COMMERCIAL WAR ALSO BEING FOUGHT

(By Associated Press)

Saloniki, October 19.—The war which General Sarrail is conducting on the military front here is not the only warfare going on in that part of the world. Among the diplomats and officials who circulate between here, Athens and Paris, Rome and London, it is recognized that there is another and larger struggle in progress than the one on the front, as it involves the commercial and economic supremacy of the Mediterranean and its great ports, Marseilles, Genoa, Trieste and Saloniki—as against the supremacy of the North Sea and its great commercial cities, Hamburg and Bremen.

To the United States this struggle is said to have a special interest, for the Mediterranean is but an extension of the Atlantic through which the United States can take part in the future commerce of the Mediterranean basin, including southern Europe, northern Africa and western Asia.

Until the war began the North Sea and its ports had established undisputed supremacy in the commercial penetration of Europe. It was the distributing point not only for northern Europe but also for southern Europe, which latter was quite unnatural. The Mediterranean had also ceased to be an avenue of supply for its own section of southern Europe.

It is to reverse this domination of the North Sea and its ports and restore the supremacy of the Mediterranean basin, that this economic struggle is now going on all the way from Saloniki to Cadix. The modern administration of European governments has now taken the place of barbarism all along the northern coast from Egypt and Tripoli to Morocco. Thus, for the first time, the Mediterranean is encircled by modern rule and the facilities of modern trade, opening a new and vast field of commerce which should particularly appeal to the U. S. in the commercial extension of the war.

The part the four great Mediterranean cities have taken in this struggle will come out more fully after the war. It will then be disclosed that one of the main causes for Italy's entering the war was to throw off the domination which the North Sea cities had secured over Italy's Mediterranean ports, Genoa and Naples.

The other Mediterranean cities have had the same experience in falling under domination from the North Sea. Marseilles was the natural distributing point for most of southwestern Europe. But is found this field occupied and largely controlled from the north, Saloniki was the natural emporium of the Balkans and all southeastern Europe up to the Danube. But this field was in the hands of the North Sea cities, Saloniki counts its decline largely from this fact. Trieste being an Austrian city, has shared in the advantages of the North Sea rule but always as an auxiliary of the north, whereas it is part of this economic struggle to make Trieste an open port for all the world, and essentially a Mediterranean city instead of an adjunct to the North Sea.

The "45th parallel" is another expressive term used in this commercial struggle. It is the east and west highway of commerce through Entente territory across Europe. It seems, also, to be a sort of commercial belt around the world, it crosses Europe east and west from Bordeaux, Lyons, Milan, Belgrade, Odessa and runs close alongside the Mediterranean from east to west, giving land and water routes side by side.

The struggle to restore the Mediterranean basin to its rights and throw off the domination of the North Sea Ports, explains the long and tenacious stand General Sarrail's forces are making on this Saloniki front. The strictly military part of their functions is considerable but aside from these military ends, the Entente forces along this Saloniki front are felt to have a larger function, to maintain the Entente foothold on the eastern Mediterranean until the whole Mediterranean basin is free from the domination of the north.

Some military critics have asked for the recall of the Saloniki expedition, on the ground that the many military divisions here could be used for the final blow on the western front. But it can be set down as certain, based on the judgment of those in highest authority, that this will not be done, for there is a larger purpose than the one on the military fronts—the control of the Mediterranean.

U. S. TROOPSHIP SUNK BY U-BOAT

(By Associated Press)

Washington, Oct. 19.—The American transport, Antilles, homeward bound from France, was torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine on Wednesday, with the loss of seventy lives.

The transport which had just the crew and some thirty odd soldiers and officers returning from France, was under a naval escort, but a submarine must have slipped through and fired the fatal torpedo. The submarine nor the torpedo were not seen and the first intimation of the presence of a submarine was the explosion of the torpedo against the side of the big transport.

All of the naval and army officers, and all but three of the ship's officers were saved, and in the seventy that went down with the ship were sixteen soldiers, the remainder being members of the crew.

There were 167 survivors. The ship was hit square amidship and sank within five minutes.

This is the first American ship engaged in war work that has been lost and it is the largest casualty list for the Americans since the war began.

But one New Englander was lost, Lt. E. Watson of Rutland, Mass.

That the loss of life was not greater was due to the wonderful rescue work of the convoy.

Secretary Daniels in announcing the loss said that he had received a cable from Vice Admiral Sims. His statement in part was: The department is in the receipt of a dispatch that the steamship Antilles, engaged in transport work, was torpedoed and sunk on Wednesday, Oct. 17 by a German submarine. The vessel at the time was under a naval escort, and the torpedo or the submarine were not seen. The ship was struck abreast the engine room bulkhead and sank in five minutes.

167 out of 237 were saved with 70 missing, and it is presumed they were lost.

All of the naval officers and army officers as well as the officers of the ship were saved. The naval casualty list is:

Walker, third engineer; Royle, junior engineer; O'Hourke, junior engineer; The following enlisted men: S. C. Kinney, seaman; J. W. Hunt, seaman; C. A. Ashburne, radio electrician; H. P. Watson, radio electrician.

There were about thirty-three soldiers returning from various reasons and the names of those missing will not be made public until the muster roll in France can be consulted.

Secretary Daniels took word of the loss to the President, and he was accompanied by Admiral Mayo who made his report to the President on his visit to Europe.

With the quick rise of sorrow over the loss came the relief that the ship was torpedoed when on her way home rather than on the way over. The fact that all of the engineer officers were lost indicates that all of the engine room crew were lost.

The Antilles was a Morgan liner of 6,873 tons and she was built in Philadelphia in 1907. She was a coastwise steamer running from New Orleans to New York.

THE WAR HAS NOT INCREASED WEALTH

Stockholm, Oct. 19.—M. Tryggar, leader of the Conservative party, declared that Sweden has not grown more wealthy because of the war. "People frequently argue," he said, "that Sweden has become much wealthier as a consequence of the war, and that therefore we need not feel uneasy regarding the future. Such wealth, however, is only fictitious. While it is true that the nation's wealth abroad has increased immensely by domestic supplies have diminished correspondingly. The land, property and forests of Sweden have an enhanced value, but the produce of the land has been reduced, and property and forests are heavily taxed. The number of houses in the towns has remained stationary for some time, with the result that many people are homeless. The national indebtedness abroad has been reduced, but internally it has increased to a far greater degree, and taxes have risen accordingly."

MUSICAL LETTER From Dr. Goodall

It is a well-known fact that Dr. Goodall has been prominent in musical societies, choirs, cantatas and public concerts and lectures for the past 46 years. He has retained his health and vigor and his robust baritone and tenor voice is now well developed and full of resonance, so that he offers his services to the public as a leader, director or preceptor, to organize and drill choirs and choruses (large or small) for musical societies or public concerts. Dr. Goodall can also be engaged to supply in quartet choirs either as tenor, baritone or first base, also as soloist for concert work. He solicits especially engagements for campaign songs, patriotic, comic, war songs, best of classical songs, college songs, national songs of all nations, slave and jubilee songs, temperance and Grange songs, Grand Army songs, concert songs, descriptive songs. Our repertoire consists of 700 dear old songs, secular and sacred, home songs, heart songs, children's songs, story songs and historical songs.

Dr. Goodall has had nearly 60 years of service in church music, both choirs and choruses, and can show church music committees and ministers how to get the best music at a moderate cost, which will fill up the empty seats quickly. There is nothing in this world, in my judgment, which will attract and bring happiness to so many people, young or old, as good music.

Dr. Goodall can also be engaged by ministers or church committees to supply pulpit or sing special Gospel Hymns or solos.

As soon as he sells out his office and dental business he will devote all his time to music teaching, vocal music and voice placing for both ladies and gentlemen, also diaphragmatic or deep breathing, which is essential for singers, and is also hygienic and a promoter of health. Call on him now and make appointments for private lessons day or evening.

Dr. Goodall is well prepared by 46 years of diligent Bible study and many years of Y. M. C. A. work to preach the Gospel as well as to sing the Gospel on the Lord's Day. He has made arrangements with the Ministers' Association through Mr. Percy Caswell, secretary of this association, to supply churches in the county or city whenever opportunity offers. So many ministers have enlisted and gone to the war that over 50 per cent of new students are lacking and there is an urgent need for help now, so Dr. Goodall will be now recognized as the "Singing Evangelist," singing my several hundred Gospel Hymns and classics and old Hymns from the best authors, whenever occasion offers.

NOTICE CAREFULLY.—Until Dr. Goodall sells out his office and dental business he will attend to all his patients in dentistry as usual, but it would be well for those patrons to make engagements with him directly or they will lose this opportunity now offered.

WILL ATTEND WATERWAY CONVENTION

The tenth annual convention of the Atlantic Deeper Waterway association will be held at Miami Florida, Thanksgiving week, November 27-30, 1917. A notice of this convention has been received and gives a fine program.

The River and Harbor committee of congress will attend the convention coming from Corpus Christi, Texas, where they attended the annual meeting of the Interstate Inland Waterway League of Louisiana and Texas on November 22.

The Atlantic Deeper Waterway association has for its object a complete inland waterway from Maine to Florida and in its ten years of its history it has accomplished wonders in that line, so that a vessel of medium draught can go now from Maine to an inland waterway most of the way, but the association wants medium sized warships to do the same.

This complete inland waterway would be a great asset to the country both for the navy and the merchant marine.

The officers of the association from New Hampshire both reside in this city. Charles W. Gray is state delegate and Oliver L. Frisbee is vice president and member of the board of managers and one of the founders of the association.

Hon. J. Hampton Moore, president of the association, has appointed O. L. Frisbee to represent the Atlantic Deeper Waterway association at the annual convention at Corpus Christi and address that body.

MISSION HAS BEEN A GREAT SUCCESS

The Mission this week at the Church of the Immaculate Conception has been a great success. It has been devoted entirely to the women of the parish and next week the men will have the entire week. The attendance at all of the services has been very great. At the masses 5.15 and 8 o'clock the church has been crowded and at the evening service at 7.30 it has been impossible to secure a seat after seven o'clock.

TALKED ON THE LIBERTY BOND

In connection with the Portsmouth Chamber of Commerce drive for the Liberty Loan, Major E. W. Hartford addressed the audiences at the afternoon and evening performances of the Olympia and Colonial theatres on Friday on the Liberty Bond. Major Hartford spoke for three minutes and in a forceful manner brought out the great need of giving their support to the government. At the evening performance he read the Associated Press bulletin of the sinking of an American transport.

Farmers who were complaining that rain was needed before the cold weather set in, evidently realized their wish with the downpour of Friday night.

MERCHANTS PREDICT LOCAL SUGAR AND FLOUR FAMINE

Denounce Hoover's Statement of Gouging the Public For Undue Profits

Local food dealers denounce the statement made by Food Administrator Hoover in which he stated that retailers are gouging the public by making undue profits on food stuff. In all cases the local merchants say that the food administrator's statement is unwarranted.

In the course of interviews with local retailers it was learned that this city is facing a sugar and flour famine. The supply of sugar is being dealt out in small lots and in only a few stores it is possible to buy over two pounds. The flour situation is fully as serious. Local dealers state that it is impossible for them to state when more flour will arrive in Portsmouth.

One of the largest sugar dealers in Portsmouth states, "I have only enough sugar to supply my customers today. After this is gone I don't see where the next is coming from."

In this store the clerks as well as the owner are taking all precautions to see that no one family in Portsmouth gets over two pounds of sugar. A sharp watch is being kept on boys who might be instructed by their parents to secure all the sugar possible.

In fact the retailers see that a serious sugar situation is about to settle in Portsmouth and they are trying to make an even distribution of the staple article.

The flour situation is fast becoming as serious as that of sugar, if not more so. The demand for flour is greater than for sugar. In one store where the flour is stored in an upper loft, a wholesale dealer called a few days ago. He told the owner of this store that he had more flour in his store rooms than all the other Portsmouth dealers put together. And this store with more than all the other dealers put together, has only 200 barrels.

Assuming from this, and taking into consideration that no more flour is enroute to this city, a most serious flour famine is predicted by retailers.

Merchants are assisting in the distribution of flour, as well as sugar, so that all consumers may have an equal share.

In no case in local stores was it apparent that the retailer was making undue profits, as Mr. Hoover has said the retailers were doing. On the other hand the Portsmouth dealers are assisting to the best of their ability in the food situation.

In view of the fact that Portsmouth is facing this serious food situation, the retailers if they so desired could get any price they might ask, but they haven't done so and they are not going to. This is proof that the food administrator's statement falls through in this section.

One local merchant said, "If Mr. Hoover would open a grocery store and do the buying as well as selling he might then see where the retail merchants are not making undue profits."

Food Administrator Hoover's statement that potatoes and beans are unwarrantably high received commendation from most of the local merchants.

One local retailer showed his protest on beans which does not substantiate the statement of the food administrator. He said, "We are paying $9 a bushel wholesale for beans. They retail at 17 cents a pound, 60 pounds in the bushel, bringing the price per bushel to $10.20. This plus the freight, cartage and a shrinkage of 1 per cent. does not show excess profits."

Potatoes in local markets today sold for $2.35 a bushel, 55 cents higher than a year ago at this time.

There is a shortage in the potato market but only temporary, the farmers are holding their potatoes for a higher price. As soon as they begin to ship freely the price will be relieved.

No shortage in potatoes or beans is apparent in this city, due to the fact that Portsmouth is located near farming districts.

Less optimism was shown over the prospect of cheaper meat, flour and sugar. Meat will not be cheaper until the supply comes up to demand, according to representatives of the big packing houses. Flour men pointed out that flour can't go below $12 a barrel, because the minimum of wheat is $2 a bushel. Sugar may be lower after the new crops are harvested and refined according to sugar men, but it will be some time before the sugar crop is ready for distribution.

The Massachusetts situation is similar to local conditions. In relating the retailers side of the story in that state, President Walter K. Hutchinson of the Massachusetts Retail Grocers' association said:

"Few retailers are making much money; many retailers are just going along, and some have gone to the wall."

The Boston Produce market report says that farmers are holding up potatoes waiting for higher prices or at least preventing the potato market from breaking.

"Receipts have been light," says the report. "Since September 1 of this year arrivals have been just above half what they were for the same period last year. The farmers are storing potatoes in all sections of the country. They can afford to wait this year and there is not much likelihood of lower prices until the New York state and western crop is more matured, and on a par with the Maine crop as to value."

Many ugly stories of farmers storing their potatoes and in some cases destroying them to keep the prices up are being told around the market district.

The potato crop is larger than last year, according to official figures, and the backyard gardens are not included in the figures, and according to the potato men, "spuds" will be cheaper just as soon as "the farmers loosen up."

The bean crop is large enough to bring about a lower price and the general feeling is that as soon as beans can be shipped freely the price will drop.

THAYER HOME FROM FRANCE

His Return Is a Source of Great Personal Disappointment.

Lucius Ellsworth Thayer reached home Saturday, having arrived in New York on Friday, on the French liner Rochambeau. His coming was unexpected to his family as his cablegram, announcing his changed plans, failed to get through.

He has been in the American field service for four and one-half months, being in Section Sautaire, Unit 68, attached to the Fifth Army of the North of France, holding a sector in Champagne, with the unit headquarters four miles from the demilitarized Cathedral of Rheims.

His return is a source of great personal disappointment and is due to the fact that the United States army has taken over the American field service. Thayer filed out enlistment papers for the new service but he was rejected by the examining board on account of his feet. The taking over of the service has resulted in the disruption of two highly organized and efficient bodies of young Americans for whose work the French soldiers always express the greatest gratitude.

WOMEN WILL ADD $100,000

The women's committee made a great drive this morning and it is estimated that at least $100,000 will be added to the total. The Boy Scouts also did great work and the city has been thoroughly combed all during the day. The affair has been well organized.

The bridesmaid was Miss Nora Canty who wore a dress of blue silk with hat to match.

The best man was Emmet O'Leary. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride.

The newly married couple left on the noon train for a wedding trip to Boston and vicinity.

On their return they will reside at No. 6 Manning street.

The groom is employed in the electrical force at the navy yard.

Charles N. Hurd has joined the force as a fireman.

Supt. Ship Builder H. N. Douglas has a force of men getting the keel blocks in place on the ways as fast as they are ready.
